YANKEE AUCTION LOGIC

Overview:

The auction contains single material with quantity as lots. Start price & minimum increment amount are pre-fixed by seller (dealing officer). Bidders can quote for part quantities of the overall quantity. Allotment is done based on available quantity at that price.

The Auction works on the following logic:

Bid validation rules:

1. Quantity:

- a. Quantity should be greater than 0 and less than or equal to the total quantity
- b. It should be greater than or equal to the allotted quantity if any for that bidder.

2. Price: 2 scenarios exist - no quantity has been allocated yet to the bidder and some quantity has been already allocated to the bidder {scenario 'a' & 'b'}

a. No quantity allotted to the bidder, yet:

i. If open quantity is equal to the total quantity:

Price should be greater than or equal to the start price and less than or equal to: start price + 10 times minimum increment.

ii. If open quantity is greater than 0 (& not equal to total quantity), price should be greater than or equal to the start price and less than or equal to (current highest bid + 10 times minimum increment).

iii. If there is no open quantity, price should be greater than or equal to (current lowest bid + minimum increment) and less than or equal to (current highest bid + 10 times minimum increment).

b. Some quantity has been already allotted to bidder:

i. If open quantity exists, bid price should be greater than or equal to his allotted price and less than or equal to (current highest bid price + 10 times minimum increment).

- ii. If there is no open quantity and his allotted price is greater than the current lowest bid, then bid price should be greater than or equal to allotted price and less than or equal to (current highest bid + 10 times minimum increment).
- iii. If there is no open quantity and his allotted price is equal to the current lowest bid, then bid price should be greater than or equal to (allotted price + minimum increment) and less than or equal to (current highest bid + 10 times minimum increment).

3. Quantity & Price:

If bid quantity is equal to the allotted quantity and bid price is equal to the allotted price, then bid will be rejected as there is no increase in quantity or price.

Bid Allocation Rules:

If bid is valid as per above validation rules, bid allocation will be done as per the logic below, Already allocated bids and current bid are arranged in the order of

- 1) Price (descending)
- 2) Quantity (descending)
- 3) Bid timestamp (ascending)

Starting from the first bid as per the above order, continue assigning minimum of required quantity vs remaining quantity till remaining quantity becomes 0.

Valid bid does not guarantee the allocation of total quantity. Allotted quantity can be less than or equal to the bid quantity based on the above allocation logic.

Sample bid validation and allocation in Yankee auction:

Assume that total quantity available is 1000 T. Lot size is 20T (i.e. 1 Lot = 20T). So, total lots available are 50. Assume that the start price is 7500 per Ton and customers bid for quantity (as lots) and price (per ton price).
